HyperMotion Technology We have now created a whole new level of detail in every player movement and collision. We've revolutionised body physics and have brought artificial intelligence to the PES methodology. When a player has to accelerate or decelerate, he not only uses the right movements, but also the right timing and vectors. When he is tackling, his feet never leave the ground. This new technology, which gives us greater precision on the player's movements, accelerations and collisions, is what makes the players more reactive, and it makes it possible for the player to change directions with a small difference in speed. The Engine Fifa 22 Cracked Accounts will also be powered by the innovative new EGO Engine, the same engine that powers the PES 2020 title. It has been further optimised for next-generation consoles: PS4 Pro, Xbox One X, Switch, and PC. Whether you're playing FIFA 22 online, via the official FIFA Championship, or in split-screen multiplayer on Xbox One X, you'll always have to think on your toes. The engine has also been enhanced with more responsiveness in small changes to player physics. New Positioning, Orientation, and Visibility System In addition to the revolutionary HyperMotion Technology, we have also made a major shift in the way we place players in the game. We have adapted the positioning system to bring the player closer to the action, making it easier for players to read the game. We have also completely revamped the orientation and visibility systems. Now, the camera will only capture what is directly in front of it. This means you'll be able to see more, and the angle will be closer, whether you play the game on a TV or a new-gen console. With visibility adjusted, you'll be able to see players better and make better decisions. [FIFA 22 E3 Press Conference Footage]

Ornamental Kits Designers have been tasked with developing various new wallpapers and cosmetic designs for the PES franchise, which will be available in FIFA 22. You'll also be able to select one of them at the beginning of the game to give your game a personal touch.

New Exhibition Mode The PES Exhibition Match mode now features 4v4 exhibitions, which allow you to add a flair and intensity to pre-match training sessions. Up to eight teams can compete, and you can create your own formations by selecting player groupings
